To Avoid a Crash

SPEAKING AS ONE OF ITS D most eminent economists, Miss Barbara Ward says the world is in danger of another great depression. Her article published on this page last Thursday gave Miss Ward's reasons for believing that the long postwar boom is near its end every-where and that a failure in demand for available goods could reproduce the crash of 1929 not long hence.

The quick answer given to this problem, especially by some Cana-dian politicians, is that if demand is slack it must be pumped up with printing press money. But an econ-omist like Miss Ward sees much farther than that.

No doubt demand for some goods within the great industrial nations can be pumped up by inflation but in the price increase thus unloosed those nations would find their exports and total income falling instead of rising.

This is not to say, of course, that countries like Canada should not seek to raise the capacity of their own people to buy goods. Any such notion would be economic insanity. Miss Ward's point is that none of these internal policies-the deficit budgets of the United States and Britain, for instance - can be safely pursued in isolation from the interdependent world economy as a whole. And it is in the world economy that Miss Ward sees the signs of trouble.

As she says, the great industrial states of the North Atlantic region are producing abundantly, in the case of some goods like foodstuffs, to the point of heavy surplus. Most of humanity in the underdeveloped countries is not getting enough goods of any kind to support a decent life and for the most part not enough food to satisfy its hunger.

This familiar paradox has lately worsened with the fall of many raw material prices. The underdeveloped countries are receiving less than formerly for their single crops. The industrial nations have sustained their exports to these areas by giving the purchasers foreign aid in various form. This system of disguised export subsidy is not sufficient, says Miss Ward, to sustain the necessary total demands for goods.

A completely new attack on the weaknesses of the world economy, Miss Ward believes, is urgently needed now that the first cracks have appeared after the period of postwar reconstruction.

Such an attack could be managed only with the fullest co-opera-tion of Britain, the European Common Market and the United States, the core of the North Atlantic economy, but lately President de Gaulle has interposed his veto, for the moment anyway. By frustrating the integration of the North Atlantic economy he has limited its growth and therefore its ability to aid the backward areas and increase their demand for Western goods.

As Miss Ward says, as the British and American governments agree, the great task must not be abandoned because of a temporary discouragement. It must go for ward and the latest news from Paris begins to suggest that it will go

The reader can profitably study Ward's conclusions but he must also think of Canada's position in the developing world situa-We cannot contract out of it. Indeed, as one of the world's greatest exporters we are more involved than most nations in the attempt to expand world trade and any Ca-nadian policies that restrict it must restrict our own prosperity.

Mr. Pearson was warning Can-ada and its foreign friends of these dangers as early as 1957 when hardly anyone would listen to him. His speeches then have been confirmed by subsequent events. Soon, he will have the responsibility of applying his own views, as clarified opposition, to the actual policies of government. Undoubtedly he considers Miss Ward's general conclusions sound sions in Canadian policy must de-pend on the attitude of the other great trading nations and mainly on Gaullist Europe.

THE VANCOUVER BAR ASSOciation's publication, The Advocate, continuing the soul searching evident in recent issues, directs its most recent self-analysis to another problem confronting the legal profession.

The Advocate reports "a disturbing feeling . . . that existing pro-visions made to fit law students for practice are inadequate" and need serious re-examination. It deals specifically with the training provided by the principals of legal firms to the students articled to them, and to the student's attitude toward the year he spends articled to the firm. It finds both disappointing.

'A factor not likely to predispose a principal to devote his time and interest to providing any considerable practical training is that it has become the practice of students to require remuneration in increasing amounts for their services so that he has become more of a clerk in the office than a student to learn," says The Advocate. "As of old, students paid for the privilege of learning and thereby earned a right to tutorship.

"Not all students, by any means, realize that the year under articles the most vital in their novitiate and do not with determination ex-tract the utmost of practical learn-ing while it is available," the publication adds

The concern expressed by the Vancouver Bar Association publication can be readily understood. It recognizes a condition which falls far short of the most desirable arrangement between principal and student in an advanced stage of legal training. But it is reviewing what has become one of the facts of life in our present acquisitive the trade, business or profession when they engage new help. The lucky employers are those who lucky employers are those who managed to hold the young entrants in their businesses or professions long enough to profit from the investment they have made in the

A Sickly Infection

THERE IS NO ROOM IN CANada for the murderous nonsense now being publicized by a group which calls itself the Quebec Liberation Front. A news story in Montreal's La Presse describes an interview with a purported member of this organization who urges the assassination of Mr. Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, because of alleged enmity toward the French Canadian people.

The group is also accused of acts of sabotage in Quebec. It apparently exists solely for violence, in the manner of the Algerian rebels who terrorized their country for many

There can be no trifling with this threat, ridiculous though it may appear at this distance. When an eminent Canadian official and firstrate citizen can be publicly threatened with death by some subversive group which grossly distorts his attitude toward French Canadians, then police action should be immediate and unrelenting.

The people of Quebec themselves should be among the first to stamp out this sickly melodramatic infection, as the rest of Canada should be quick to recognize that the tiny group—they number no more than 50 or so—is in no way representative of normal Quebec political elements, not even the well-publicized separatists.

Such an organization can nave past, no present and no future at $366.26 per student per year.

them bothered to mention the fact.

But green or brown, the moss still spread. In many places the last few spears of grass gave up the fight. Within three years or so I had as fine a moss lawn as ever you saw. The lawn mower rested comfortably in the base-ment; I rested comfortably near the basement door. The moss preserved its beautiful smoothness and I preserved

It is only recently that trouble has appeared on the scene. Here and there in the moss lawn I have noticed a nasty infestation of grass. Nothing serious yet, of course, and I'm hoping the problem will solve itself when the hot summer sun hits those impudent green blades.

Meanwhile I keep an eye out for some gardening column which will deal with the problem of eradicating grass from moss. Sooner or later Jack is bound to take this up. Surely my case cannot be the only one.

There is one little condition which is bound to take the only one.

There is one little condition which he was defeated by Mr. Bennett in 1930, case cannot be the only one. he was defeated by Mr.

There is one little condition which he was 55 years of age.

But the fact is that my lawn tends to roll. We have all read of beautiful rolling green lawns, of course, but the term, I gather, usually refers to grass. To put it bluntly, my moss lawn rolls up.

Conservative urban ridings, dissipated

Now that may be handy for gardeners who might want to roll up their lawn in one part of the garden and lay it in some other location. But I'm content to leave my lawn where it is. And I'm seeking a solution to the problem. I have been toying with the idea of extra long carpet tacks, but I can find no mention of this by any of the made by those who believe that Mr. Now that may be handy for garden. Quebec support leading gardening authorities.

Oh well, something will turn up, the lawn mower.

I mean, there's no use asking for trouble, is there?

But an equally persuasive case can be made by those who believe that Mr. Diefenbaker will fight again, It is obvious that he does not yield easily. He defeated the Conservative rebels last February and a new rebellion would almost certainly have to reckon with his preside preservation guard.

There is a growing feeling that a Pearson government, despite its minority status, will be in little danger for a year and perhaps two because of the reluctance of all parties to incur the odium of bringing on a third election.

The new ministers will face problems, however, which will certainly not yield to easy solutions. Mr. Diefenbaker, a shrewd politician, may well see possibilities in this situation. He is, after all, by nature an oppositionist; it has been said, with justice, that he went on campaigning against the St. Laurent Liberals

Sometimes, while a person is walking or perhaps dancing, suddenly one knee-joint seems to lock, so that for a while it won't bend properly. When this happens the person may be thrown to the floor.

On going to an orthopedist, the person may be told that he has a "joint mouse." This is a piece of tissue from the inside of the joint, which has become loose and which moves around in the joint cavity. If it gets pinched between the two bones, there may not be locking, but considerable pain. The treatment, naturally, is an operation in which

New Gadget to Kill Bugs And Cut Power Mower Noise By PENNY SAVER

What next? It's a gadget to attach to your power mower which kills insects, ants and gnats as you cut the grass. This is recommended for those in particular who love to have

As for the mechanics of its operation Penny knows very little except that you adapt it directly to the muffler, and more important than killing bugs, it cuts down the engine noise. That fact alone should be worth the $9.95.

Now that hoses are once again hooked up for the season it is time to think about removing all the winter grime from your car. And, if you have left yours as long as Penny has you will be glad to hear of anything that will minimize the amount of elbow grease needed. This is an aluminum polish that will below the season.

that will help put the shine back on the chrome trim.

For 99 cents you can buy a tube of this polish that cleans, waxes and protects all at once. It is also proving to be very opular for screen doors and kitchen fixtures.

Well, Penny has done it again—found something new in screw drivers. This latest find is a screw driver with a pistol grip handle, made of shockproof and non-inflammable plastic. It consists of a three-way action ratchet which is regarded as the greatest advance since the invention of the screwdriver itself.

Fix the screwdriver into the head of the screw, then with a firm grip on the handle snap it back and forth until the screw is inserted. For removing screws there is a switch on the handle for reverse action.

Pistol grip handle with one screwdriver point is $1.49 or you can buy a kit, which includes four points, for $2.98.

If you hate the noise of power mowers as much as Penny does phone 382-3131 and she will tell you where to shop.

Double Win Scored By Eight-Year-Old

Eight-year-old John Tucker, 3477 Henderson Road, today became a two-time winner when his question, "Can eagles catch fish," was selected for the Ask Andy column.

He receives a World Book atlas. Last October he won a World Book encyclopedia.

He is the second Victorian within two weeks to become a double-winner in the popular Times feature. The other was Kathy White, 13, of 784 Hill-side. She also received an atlas after winning an encyclopedia two years ago.

John's winning question came to mind when he and his parents saw a bald eagle sitting on a tall fir tree on Salt Spring Island. They had never been so close to the big bird-of-prey and marvelled at he was disappointed that Ask Andy did not answer one quesmon to see one being chased away by a flock of seagulls. Uplands school is still hopeful that someday the question will B.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to John Tucker, 8, Victoria, B.C., for his question:

Can Eagles Catch Fish?

Several of the world's great and foxes, birds and water birds are classed as eagles, fowl—but as a rule he is not and all of them are meat-eating birds of prey. However, Our Canadian eagle is actu-

A Message of Appreciation From David Groos, M.P.- Elect

Now that the election is over and the votes are counted, I would like to offer my thanks to everyone who worked for me during the campaign and who voted on Election Day.

There are many of my supporters I can thank personally, but there are some who are unknown to me, and I hope they will accept this message as a sign of my appreciation until I can do better.

I will try my utmost to show the real measure of my thanks in my actions on behalf of ALL the people of this Riding in the House of Commons over the next few years.

The letter continues:

Hodgkin's disease is a very peculiar one which, in some ways, behaves like an infection. I have seen some of the patients run fever for weeks. In other ways, the disease behaves like a cancer which is widely scattered from the start. It differs from ordinary cancer in that commonly it occurs in a young man, or occasionally a young woman, between the ages of 20 and 30 years.

The common type of cancer tends to come after the age of 40. Often the first sign of trouble is an

One of the first things the doctor should do is to get an X-ray film made of the man's chest, because this may reveal a number of large nodes. In many cases, it is well to remove one of the lymph nodes from the neck and have sections made of it. When these are stained and examined by an expert on tumors, he can usually say what the

The other type of patient I dread to see. Usually, he is very itchy all over and he has a fever every day. He is losing weight and he is feeling sick and weak. He may have to stay in bed. Usually, when I ask this man about a previous spell of illness, he will say, "That's right. Some years ago the nodes enlarged in my neck and chest, and my doctor was worried, but without any treatment I soon got well, and the doctor guessed that I had something like an infertious mononucleosis.

Actually, what probably happened was that the man had his first spell of fodg-kin's disease, and now he is in the final one. In this later stage treatment often fells to son may be thrown to the floor.

On going to an orthopedist, the person may be told that he has a "joint mouse." This is a piece of tissue from the inside of the joint, which has become loose and which moves around in the joint cavity. If it gets pinched between the two bones, there may not be locking, but considerable pain. The treatment, naturally, is an operation in which the joint mouse is removed.

In other cases, the cartilage, or gristle-like sort of pad on top of the lower bone in the knee joint, has loosened and may have to be sewed into place. Many football players have knee trouble because of an injury to the cartilage or to a ligament-tough strong band—in the knee joint.

Occasionally, a person who has slipped onthe ice or on a little rug, while making a tremendous effort to keep himself from falling, will tear one of the ligaments in the knee. An expert orthopedist will then have to decide whether to operate or to wait and see if the leg heals itself. Perhaps in six weeks or two months nature will repair the damage and the person will again walk comfortably

Mayfair Lanes Manager States Policy

Management of soon-to-open Mayfair Lanes today cleared up a misunderstanding as a result of a picture caption which appeared in the Times Saturday.

The 40-lane enterprise, largest on the Island and second to Brentwood Lanes, Vancouver, in size, was described as being backed by American liquor interests.

Manager Iver Hansen said:
"We do not represent any liquor interest whatsoever. In New York state, where we are incorporated, it is forbidden by law to have any interest in the liquor industry.

"This is the second operation in Western Canada. We have 45 places all told, in the U.S., Europe and Canada

"We do sell liquor and beer, Pennsylvania, there are no li-censed bowling lanes."

RED DEER (CP) - National Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson says he has been told that "a rather handsome remuneration" was proposed in a bid to get some Quebec Social Credit members of Parliament to join the Liberal party.

In an interview, recorded Saturday by radio station CKRD Red Deer, Mr. Thompson said he heard the report a few days ago "but I didn't think this would actually take place.
"Whether it has now, I don't he said. Mr. Thompson was comment-ing on a statement promising support for a Liberal govern-ment signed by six Social Credit

MPs from Quebec.
Mr. Thompson said the statement "caught me completely by surprise.

"I had heard a few days ago that our senior organizer in Que-bec had been asked to recommend four members who might be most easily influenced toward joining the Liberals and in return were offered a rather handsome remuneration for it,

ASKED INVESTIGATION

Mr. Thompson said he had isked his party whip, Dr. Guy Marcoux and Marcel Lessard, chairman of the party's caucus, to hold an investigation into the statement because "certainly none of our members have the right to go ahead and make an arrangement on their own.'

A Message of Appreciation From David Groos, M.P.- Elect

Now that the election is over and the votes are counted, I would like to offer my thanks to everyone who worked for me during the campaign and who voted on Election Day.

There are many of my supporters I can thank personally, but there are some who are unknown to me, and I hope they will accept this message as a sign of my appreciation until I can do better.

I will try my utmost to show the real measure of my thanks in my actions on behalf of ALL the people of this Riding in the House of Commons over the next few years.
